POWER BACK TO JAIL; MERGER SECRETS TOLD

Remarkable Exposure of the Men Who Backed the Suits Against Northern Pacific—Peter Power's Testimony, Expected to Be a Sensation, Merely Corroborates Lawyer Lamb—Effort to Free Power Fails.

Peter Power, the much sought witness in the Northern Pacific merger suits, was put on the witness stand before Examiner Maybey, in the Federal Court, this afternoon.

His testimony, while directly exposing those who backed him, fell flat after the remarkable exposure of Lawyer Lamb. He was tenderly handled by the railroad lawyers and the only object accomplished was a corroboration of the testimony of Lawyer Lamb.

Immediately after the conclusion of his hearing he was sent back to Ludlow Street Jail. An effort was made to secure his discharge, but Lawyer Guthrie opposed it and, as Judge Lacombe, who signed the committing order, was absent in Athens, N. Y., there was no course left but to take Power back to the County Jail.

PETER POWER TELLS HOW HE GOT THOSE 100 SHARES.

Peter Power took the stand immediately after recess. He was examined by Frank B. Kellogg, the Western lawyer who is associated with Mr. Guthrie in the conduct of the defense.

Power gave his name as Peter, his age as twenty-four, his occupation a law clerk and student of the automobile. "You've been in Mr. Lamb's office?" "Yes, I was told to go to him to get the agency for a steam carriage concern."

"You met Mr. Lamb when?" "November, 1900." "Been in his office frequently?" "Yes, nearly every day, studying law."

"When did you begin?" "Nineteen hundred and two." "How much salary?" "I was to receive $30 a week."

"When was this agreed upon?" "In April." "Prior to that, did you receive compensation?" "Well, I had engaged Mr. Lamb to collect $1,500 in the City Chamberlain's office which was left to me and my brother. I wished Mr. Lamb to keep control of it until I saw a chance to invest it."

"Did Mr. Lamb pay you a salary prior to April, 1902?" "Yes, in an automobile company, at $30 a week."

"During January, February and March of that year?" "He did."

"Wasn't it reduced to $10?" "Never." "Continues now?" "Yes."

"Did you ever own any stock in the Northern Pacific Railroad Company?" "Mr. Lamb told me one of his clients, Mr. Weldenfeld, would transfer 100 shares of common stock and it was assigned to me."

"How assigned to you?" "Mr. Lamb said so."

"He said?" "Yes."

"Did you ever see a written assignment of the stock?" "Not that I know of. I was told I was to get it in the latter part of May, 1901."

"Why were you to get the stock?" "I was told I was to bring suit."

"What was your object in bringing suit?" "Why, I was simply to act as a plaintiff for Mr. Weldenfeld."

"Had you any personal interest?" "It was my stock."

"What kind of a suit was it to be?" "To test the merger."

"When were you so informed?" "Sometime in December."

"You did not know the object of the suit in May?" "I didn't know. I was told I was to be put in a position to bring suit."

"Did you ever pay anything for the stock?" "No, sir."

"Who was to pay?" "Mr. Weldenfeld was to pay all expenses."

"Who also was behind the suit?" "I heard Mr. Content's name mentioned also. Capt. Stern said."

"Did you get your information at that time from Mr. Lamb?" "Yes."

"What arrangement was made by which you were to own the 100 shares of stock?" "Mr. Lamb stated that his client (Mr. Weldenfeld) wanted to bring suit and I was to be the one to be the plaintiff and they would remain under cover."

"Where is the crime?" "Didn't you regard that as peculiar?" "No, I was not committing a crime by receiving a gift of 100 shares of stock."

"Ever figure before as a plaintiff?" "Yes, in a typewriter suit, at Mr. Lamb's request."

"What object had you in bringing the suit?" "I had none. It was the people back of me."

"Anything said about affecting the value of the stock?" "None that I knew of."

"You had no interest?" "No, except the stock was mine."

"When did you first see the stock?"

CANTOR BOOM FOR GOVERNOR IS LAUNCHED.

Assemblyman Harburger Starts Campaign in Interest of Borough President.

12 COUNTIES PLEDGED.

Aid of Ex-Gov. Hill to Be Invoked in Considering the Candidacy—Good Record a Material Help to Cantor.

ALBANY, Aug. 21.—The boom of President Jacob A. Cantor, of the Borough of Manhattan, for the Democratic nomination for Governor was launched in this city to-day by former Assemblyman Julius Harburger, Tammany leader of the Tenth Assembly District of New York City.

Mr. Harburger came to this city to see former Senator Hill in the interest of President Cantor, but the Senator was out of town.

Mr. Harburger gave out the following statement: "Mr. Jacob Cantor will go into the convention with nearly 100 delegates. He has already twelve counties pledged absolutely to him, eight others conditionally pledged and all of these outside of New York City."

"These pledges have come to him without any effort whatsoever on the part and in the face of frequent statements by him that he is not a candidate for the nomination."

Hill Not There.

"I called on ex-Gov. Hill to-day to tell him what I thought would be the strongest Democrat to nominate, but he is delivering a speech at Albany and I am sorry I missed him."

"Mr. Cantor has served in the Legislature for nearly seventeen years. He kept his record clean during all this service, and is beyond all question one of the ablest and most popular men in the State. All of the other candidates mentioned are good men, but they would fight loyally for him, but his ability, there is no question of it, is the strongest and most popular man in the State in which he is not known."

"Did Cantor Stern say they were convinced?" "How long did you have the stock?" "Only a few minutes, when Capt. Stern showed it to me."

"Do you know Content & Co.?" "No, but I have called them up on the phone frequently."

"About this suit?" "No, sir. I didn't want me to talk over the phone about the suit. They wanted to remain under cover."

"Mr. Lamb said so?" "When you went West who gave you the money?" "Capt. Stern gave me $100. I saw a check later from Mr. Weldenfeld for $2,000. That was to pay my expenses."

"Going West did you discuss the case with Mr. Lamb?" "Yes, he told me that that parties were under his direction."

"Under his direction?" "Yes, he told me that that parties were under his direction."

"Who did I own the stock?" "Whom did you meet at Chicago?" "I met Mr. Greer of Buckley, Grey & Moore and went to his office."

Lamb Had Hired Him.

"Had you employed Mr. Greer?" "No, I thought Mr. Lamb had."

"From Chicago where did you go?" "To St. Paul. There we met some of the officers and they went to see the Governor."

"Did Mr. Lamb afterward report to you?" "Yes, he said things were in our favor. We went to Minneapolis the next day."

"Volunteered to go?" "Yes, I volunteered to go."

"Mr. Kellogg showed the witness a copy of the original complaint in the case and asked Power to examine the signature."

"Did you swear to this?" "Yes, that is my signature."

"Well, did you or did you not read this complaint?" "I glanced over it. I asked Mr. Lamb if he had contained was all right and he said it was."

"Mr. Kellogg also showed the witness the exhibit on which the injunction was procured."

"Do you know Mr. Lamb's signature?" "Is this Mr. Lamb's signature?" "It is."

"Why sign any other paper?" "Yes, the bond."

"How long did you stay in Minneapolis?" "Four or five days. Then I came back and Mr. Lamb and I went to Washington. I got there I got a telegram dated No. 9 Wall street, urging me to call the next day. I called on Mr. Lamb at his apartment and also to see Capt. Stern. I told about the telegram and said that I supposed it was sent by somebody who wanted to know if I was the Peter Power in the suit. Capt. Stern got up and went down stairs. He came back and said: 'That telegram had no connection with the suit. Probably you are in financial trouble.' Capt. Stern added, 'If so I am authorized to allow you to draw on me for $100.'"

"At Washington, the witness said, he went with Lamb for the purpose of seeing some one from Minneapolis. They did not meet the person."

"Did you know Marquand?" "Yes, I did."

"Do you remember when Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan and Mr. Perkins were examined?" "No."

"Didn't know he was wanted."

"Didn't you see in the newspapers that your presence was demanded?" "No, I wasn't called."

"Were you in Mr. Lamb's office every day then?" "Yes."

"Was not discussed going down to see Mr. Weldenfeld at Oyster Bay, Capt. Lamb's request?" "Yes, I was looking pretty blue. I said, 'Why shouldn't I look at all the people who are following you?' Capt. Stern said: 'Oh, don't mind that.'"

"What then?" "Mr. Chamberlain later talked with Mr. Weldenfeld over the phone and then

MAJOR G. A. ARMES SHOT
IN BREAST BY A TENANT.

Officer Won Notoriety by Pulling Gov. Beaver's Nose, for Which He Was Court-Martialled.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—Major George A. Armes, a retired army officer, was shot at his home a few miles outside this city to-day by J. Roland Johnson.

Major Armes was able to come to the city and go to the Army Hospital for an operation to extract the bullet. According to his account Johnson was formerly one of his tenants, with whom he had some difficulty, and who threatened to shoot.

Major Armes says he was sitting on the porch of his house when Johnson approached and fired two shots, the first taking effect in the right breast. The second shot went wild. The wound is not serious.

Major George A. Armes has had one of the most turbulent careers in the United States Army. He was a gallant officer during the civil and Indian wars and was brevetted for gallantry.

During the inaugural procession of Benjamin Harrison Major Armes had a quarrel with Gov. Beaver, of Pennsylvania, and while the Governor was riding at the head of the parade of which he was grand marshal Major Armes rode up to him and pulled his nose.

For this he was court-martialled and placed on the retired list. His domestic difficulties have frequently been aired in the courts and newspapers. He is several times a millionaire.

TWO GAMES IN PITTSBURG.

New Yorkers Do Better in Second Half of Double-Header with Pirates.

The Batting Order.

Pittsburgh: Clarke, cf.; Beaumont, cf.; Jones, 3b.; Wagner, 1b.; Ritchey, 2b.; Conroy, cf.; Burke, rf.; Zimmer, c.; Philippi, p.; Umpire—O'Day.

(Special to The Evening World.)

EXPOSITION PARK, PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 21.—Manager-Captain McGraw took a hand in the double-header the Giants played the Champion Pittsburghs this afternoon. McGraw was bent on winning and departed from his rule of pitchers working in turn by putting Christy Mathewson in the box for the first game.

It was Taylor's turn to twirl, and although the silent fellow worked very well in practice, McGraw preferred "Matty."

Pittsburgh's team was more patched up than ever to-day. Jack O'Connor, who has been covering first base since Bransfield sustained the injury to his leg, was not in uniform. Jack's dickering with the American League's leader for his own services and that of assigned Pittsburghers has caused him to be laid off without pay, and so Manager Fred Clarke decided to put his acting captain, Hans Wagner, on first and play himself in the outfield. That combination made New York's chances look very bright and they started out to win both games.

McGraw's presence seemed to heighten the liveliness of his team and the bettors in the stand were not entering very big odds on the Pirates.

The double-header proved a big attraction for the fans. The attendance touched pretty close to the 5,000 mark when the first game began.

McGraw expects to leave his team again to-night and go off on another tour of American League cities. Just where he will strike first is not known, for he refuses to say. Much speculation is made on whom the American League shortstop is McGraw has signed Elberfeld, of Detroit, is considered the next best man to Bobby Wallace, and it is more than likely that he is the man. But even that is a guess.

Giants Lose First Game.

Sam Leever was a puzzle to the Giants, and that was why they lost the first game.

O'REILLY LOSES
HIS EXCISE CASE

Captain's Own Witness Turns Against Him and Bartender Goes Free.

William Kerna, bartender for Thomas J. Sommers, at No. 2 Jackson Slip, who was arrested at 4 o'clock yesterday morning by Capt. Myles O'Reilly, of the Oak street station, on a charge of violating the excise law, was discharged by Magistrate Hogan, in the Tombs Court, this afternoon. At the time of the raid Capt. O'Reilly found four policemen of his precinct in the saloon.

Capt. O'Reilly told the Magistrate how he had found four of his patrolmen shaking dice in a little office attached to the saloon. Beside the bartender were the only persons in the place. The Captain admitted that he had not asked for a drink, had not been offered one and had not seen liquor exposed for sale.

As a witness for his side of the case the Captain produced Patrolman John Loosen, one of the four men who were surprised in the saloon. Loosen has been on the force but a short time and looked pale and shivered when facing Magistrate Hogan. Assembled about the bridge were thirty policemen, anxious to hear the testimony in the case.

Loosen's Good Excuse.

Loosen said that he had entered the saloon fifteen seconds before the Captain did, and that his purpose in going in was to tell the bartender that he was violating the law. Loosen declared that when the Captain walked in three men whom he did not recognize rushed out of the little office, knocking him down and escaping before he had a chance to get a real good look at them. The patrolman said that was all he had to say.

"Would you have arrested that bartender?" he was asked.

"I would."

"Do you consider that he committed a crime?"

"I do."

"The prisoner is discharged," announced Magistrate Hogan, shortly.

"But, Your Honor, hastily said Capt. O'Reilly, 'there were four of my officers there and they were shaking dice. I'm not the P. I. Commissioner, Captain,' answered the Magistrate.

"But, Your Honor," began the Captain again.

"Captain, your men are not on trial here. Take them to Headquarters if you want to prefer charges against them."

"But, Your Honor," retorted Capt. O'Reilly, "each of these men had a pile of money before him."

"Captain, I tell you that I didn't want to hear about your men. The prisoner is discharged," concluded Magistrate Hogan.

RACE TRACK, SARATOGA, N. Y., Aug. 21.—Heavy rains during the early morning hours converted the track into a quagmire this afternoon and the card was cut to pieces.

With many stakes ahead of them at the present meeting and the rich and brilliant Sheephead meeting to come, owners did not care to risk their horses over a heavy track, and especially at Saratoga, which is new and likely to develop holes at any time.

Enough horses were left in, however, to furnish good mediums for speculation, and information concerning mud runners was eagerly sought.

The single stake feature was the Huron, a handicap of a mile and three-sixteenths for three-year-olds and upward. This had a good class of entries, but there were other races equally as interesting.

Though showers were falling when the time came for the Huron, to the course the crowds were out just the same and the attendance was fully up to the average.

The National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, with a view to encouraging that branch of sport and developing steeplechasers, is arranging to have races of this sort given at all county fair meetings throughout the State where the tracks are suitable.

Mr. Featherstone was very angry this afternoon over the reports presented in a morning paper that he was going to sell out his stable and retire from the turf. Mr. Featherstone has been sick, but came out to the track for the first time.

PILLSBURY LANDS SPIES
IN THE MIMIC NAVAL WAR.

Commander of the "Hostile" Fleet Believed to Have Gained a Point on the Defenders.

ROCKPORT, Mass., Aug. 21.—There is evidence to-day that Commander Pillsbury has adopted the daring step of stationing spies at the main points included in the operations for the defense of the coast. The first intimation of anything of this sort came from Provincetown, where it was suspected that an officer had been landed.

Investigation led to the belief that at other places and even at this station such spies had been sent. This prompted to even closer secrecy, if possible, than had been maintained before and to orders that sharp watch be kept for suspicious persons.

There is not a point from Portland to Provincetown where extended observation can be obtained that is not manned by watchmen from the vessels of Admiral Higginson. Each station has been heard of from time to time and those in charge of the central station here are satisfied that the signal system is as nearly perfect as it can be.

Not only are the important points occupied by men from the warships, but in some cases marines and signalmen are used, and they have the cooperation of the local house keepers and of the various life-saving crews. All reports received up to noon to-day were the same, to the effect that nothing had been seen of the enemy.

As far as possible those in charge of the central station here are maintaining conditions of actual warfare. Ensign Berry and Midshipman Fitzpatrick receive reports, handle despatches and direct affairs. To-day Capt. N. T. Holmes, of the Keatsarge, was at the station for the purpose of getting an accurate land view of the vessels as they moved about at sea.

Lawyer John Hoyer, who defended Kerna, then said:

"Your Honor, I wish to make a formal demand on O'Reilly, now in your presence, for the $250 he has now in his possession and which he took from that officer. My client was consulting his receipts at the time he was arrested, and I think he is entitled to that money."

Capt. O'Reilly said that he would not surrender the money.

"Very well, then, Captain," answered the lawyer, "I serve notice on you that I will advise my client to at once begin a suit against you for conversion of property, and you may find yourself in worse straits than you think you have your officers in."

Capt. O'Reilly shook his head and said:

"Captain, your men are not on trial here. Take them to Headquarters if you want to prefer charges against them."

"But, Your Honor," retorted Capt. O'Reilly, "each of these men had a pile of money before him."

"Captain, I tell you that I didn't want to hear about your men. The prisoner is discharged," concluded Magistrate Hogan.

GATES BEHIND ULLMAN BOOK.

Eastern Layers, Jealous of Enormous Operations, Are to Begin a Cut-Throat Policy.

(Special to The Evening World.)

SARATOGA, RACE TRACK, Aug. 21.—The great winning made by Joe Ullman in the ring yesterday caused a lot of talk.

There is every probability that there will be an open rupture between the Eastern and Western layers because of the magnitude of the operations Ullman is conducting.

Ullman is only a figurehead and he is using a Western bank roll.

This money is in charge of Kid Weller, who welched some years ago when making books in the East. He recently paid off his debts to enable him to operate at Saratoga, but
